

ABSTRACT

A gaming machine includes a coin input device for receiving coins that can be used to play a wagering game. The coin input device includes a coin control mechanism and a coin validation component downstream from the coin control mechanism. The coin control mechanism slows the velocity and properly spaces the 5 coins to prevent jamming and to allow the coin validation component to accurately identify the currency value and authenticity of each coin.